

FULNECK GOLF CLUB

The oldest golf club in Leeds is situated at the centre of Moravian Church activity in Britain. The Moravian community of Fulneck was founded by Count Zinzendorf of Moravia in 1746, and the village was built by 1771.

The nine-hole golf course was founded in 1892, and has developed into a picturesque, tricky site with a welcoming feel.

Yorkshire cricketing legend Sir Len Hutton was a junior member who went on to become club captain, and it has another claim to fame.

In 1989, Steve Pullan became only the second person ever recorded to score two holes-in-one in consecutive holes – the 12th and 13th, both of which were played in pouring rain.

Situated behind the Moravian Church, the clubhouse, pictured, stands above a valley, with part of the course on the slopes and part in the valley, negotiating the curves of Tong Beck, which provides a difficult accompaniment to the middle holes.
